

Events of the Past Week in the City—Personal Mention

Social Events of the Week in Indianapolis

Club Programmes and Miscellaneous Social Affairs

With the return of the people who have been spending the summer out of town society grows gay, and it is probable that by October there will be numerous receptions and teas. The outlook promises a brighter season. Indianapolis has known for several years, and if all the weddings and parties that are hinted at materialize there will not be the complaint of dullness which has so fittingly been urged in the past few seasons. There is but little entertaining planned for this week apart from the horse show parties, for the show is, of course, the important event of the fall in Indianapolis. A number of visitors will be in town especially for it, among them Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Parker, of Terre Haute, with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Geddes; Mr. and Mrs. Millikan, of Cincinnati; with Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Millikan; Miss Keegan, of Crawfordsville; with Mr. and Mrs. George W. Bliss, and a large number of others. The holders of the boxes will entertain parties of friends each night, and, in addition, there are numerous other parties being planned. The list of box-holders includes M. P. Fisher, Albert Leiber, William R. Brown, Clarence A. Kenyon, Carl Krauss, A. L. Block, E. O. Hunter, John J. Appel, Mrs. J. A. Conkey and A. A. Hill, G. Van Camp, Cortland Van Camp, C. A. Bookwalter, Hugh McGowan, G. A. Gay, Henry Kahn, Albert R. Thompson, H. P. Wasson, F. L. Mayer, J. K. Sharpe, C. H. Badger, G. F. McCulloch, W. M. Shott and Blair & Baker.

The Kind Lady Pondered.
There are some women who have the misguided idea that to call the attention of their sister women to a deficiency in their toilet is quite the quintessence of kindness. There are others that think precisely the reverse, and prefer that ignorance which in such cases makes for bliss. One of the first kind of women sat just behind one of the second kind the other day in the car. Her kindly heart and observing eye soon took in the fact that the dainty summer gown, fastened up the back with those infinitesimal crocheted buttons that were never meant to button anything, was, in fact, open for the space of four or five buttons. She leaned forward and explained the situation and insisted that the girl in the gown lean forward so that she might fasten the refractory buttons. The lady of the kindly heart wore silk gloves with too-long fingers and the buttons were elusive. Consequently the process was a long one. The girl, leaning forward, with the eyes of other passengers upon her, grew redder and redder under the ordeal. When the task was finally accomplished she turned to the kindly lady with a suspicious smile on her lips. "Thank you very much," she almost snapped. "It was awfully good of you to trouble, but really those buttons never will stay fastened." And in proof she wriggled her shoulders and the buttons flew unbuttoned. Then she leaned back in her seat with a contented little smile. And the kindly lady leaned back in her seat and pondered.

The Telephone Terror.
The telephone is, most of the time, one of the comforts of modern life, but once in a while it becomes imbued with that pervasiveness which all inanimate things possess sometimes and goes on a terrible tour of untrustworthiness, as for instance, when it permits some interloper to cut in unwelcome upon a very private conversation. That is the reason why there is a close connection between one lovely Indianapolis maiden and two of her erstwhile warmest chums. Maiden No. 1 gave a party not long since. Maiden No. 2 went and did not have a good time. Maiden No. 3 did not go, so the next morning she called up Maiden No. 2 to ask her how the affair came off.
"Perfectly," boasted Maiden No. 2.
"It was the pokiest thing I ever saw. We all just sat around the room and tried to look pleasant, but I tell you it was mighty hard work, for me at any rate. I never could see why on earth anyone took so much pains to select unattractive people for her parties."

"Well, it's just because she hasn't a bit of tact," said Maiden No. 2. "She is always saying just the things she oughtn't to say to precisely the people she oughtn't to say them to. But tell me, how did she look?"
"Just a little worse than usual, dear—and you can imagine what that is. That tacky pink dress, you know, that she just does on, and that makes her complexion look seven shades darker. And her hair—well, I can't do that justice—or injustice, rather."

Maiden No. 2 paused for emphasis; and in the pause came a voice of icy sweetness:
"When you two have quite finished discussing me and my clothes and my manners I should like to have a little conversation with you on my own account."

But there was a ghastly silence as Maiden No. 2 and I hung up their receivers as quietly as possible. Since then they are careful about their telephone confidences; but unless yet prevails when they meet Maiden No. 1.

Personal and Social Notes.
A number of the college men of the city gave a subscription dance, Thursday night, at the Propylaeum as the close of their vacation gayeties. About sixty guests were present and the assembly hall was used for the dance.

The marriage of Miss Maude May Bounsell and Mr. John W. Noble took place Wednesday noon at the home of the bride's father, Mr. Andrew Bounsell, at the country home in Malott Park. Mr. and Mrs. Noble have gone on a wedding journey and will be at home later with Mr. Bounsell.

A business and social meeting of the Vassar Club of Indiana was held Tuesday morning with Miss Theresa Pierce, Miss Hazel West, Miss Helen Carson and Miss Hazel Spellman, who enter Vassar this year, were present, and new members of the club were Mrs. Charles A. Garrard, Mrs. Charles Roemer and Mrs. Roscoe O. Hawkins.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Rust, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Rust, and Mr. Harris Scott, of Springfield, O., took place Thursday at noon at the home of the bride's parents, in the presence of the relatives and a few friends. The Rev. W. W. Criley, of the First Lutheran Church, read the ceremony and a wedding breakfast followed the ceremony and later Mr. and Mrs. Scott left for a short wedding journey.

Kelsey Stone, and Miss Edna Johnson, of St. Louis, with Miss Edna Baggis.

A dance was given Friday night at the Woodruff Clubhouse by a number of young people in honor of Misspinner Hugh Brown, Eldred Armstrong and George Darlow and Faymaster George Brown, who are home on vacations.

Mrs. Charles T. Whitsett was at home informally yesterday afternoon at the Charleston Inn in honor of her daughter, Miss Mae Culver, whose birthday, Mr. Orndorff, of Indian Territory, occurs this week. The rooms were charmingly adorned with autumn flowers and a harp played during the calling hours.

Mrs. John N. Fenssey entertained a number of musical friends Wednesday night for her guests, Mrs. G. W. Sweet and Mrs. William Holt, of Albany, N. Y. Features of the evening were literary potpourri and a war romance on the piano by Miss Grace M. Fenssey, and old-fashioned games. The rooms were decorated with palms, ferns and white roses and similar.

Mrs. John Schleppe gave a small musicale Wednesday night for Miss Selma Neubacher, who will leave this week for New York and will enter the Pratt Institute. The soloists for the evening were Miss Stella Vonderhaar, piano; A. Neubacher, flute; Montgomery Van Dyke, violin; Charles Q. Williams, F. L. Purdy, O. N. Frenzel, H. W. Lawrence, W. E. Hayward, C. D. Gray, A. A. Barnes, Robert Geddes, Indianapolis Saddle Company, William Scott, J. C. Cooper, Chalmers Brown, F. M. Ayres, James Jones, Mortimer Levering, F. P. Shott and Blair & Baker.

Mrs. John B. Griffer, of College avenue, was the hostess of a pretty luncheon of twenty covers, followed by a card party, Thursday. For the luncheon the table was laid in pink and white and carriages formed the floral setting. Assisting Mrs. Griffer during the afternoon were Mrs. Laura, Mrs. Newson and Mrs. Harlan, and the Greenburg Whist Club.

Miss Edith Hull was the hostess for a card company Friday afternoon in honor of her guests, Mrs. Charles Aye, of Mattoon, Ill., and Miss Edith Bayless, of Frankfort, Ky. Asters were used in the decoration of the rooms. Assisting Miss Hull in entertaining were her mother, Mrs. R. C. Hull, and Miss Edna Beck, of St. Louis, who is visiting Miss Elizabeth Baggis; Miss Ethel Allen, of Terre Haute, with Miss Leota Graffey, was among the guests.

An enjoyable reception was given Friday night at the Propylaeum by the Principals' Club, the guests being the teachers of the city. The receiving party included Mr. A. M. Sweeney, president of the School Board, and Mrs. Sweeney, Mr. Calvin N. Kendall, superintendent of the schools, and Mrs. Kendall, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin S. Hoyt, Miss Nebraska Cropsey and Miss Margaret Hamilton. The other members of the club assisted in entertaining the guests.

Mrs. Maurice Moyer, of the Meridian, gave a pretty card company Friday afternoon in honor of her visitor, Miss Belle Moyer, of Philadelphia. The horse show colors, scarlet and white, were used in the decoration of the rooms. In the dining room the table had a center piece of red and white, and was lighted by red candles, while the lace and confetti were of the same colors. Mrs. Moyer was assisted in entertaining by her mother and sister, Mrs. Rosa Kieffer, Mrs. Benjamin Moyer and Miss Ruby Kieffer.

The marriage of Miss Clara Margaret Hillman to Mr. Bertram Earl Morris took place Wednesday night at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Hillman, on South Illinois street. The Rev. Mr. Shorey, of the Evangelical Church, pronounced the ceremony. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Elizabeth Hillman, and the bridegroom by Mr. Frank Ayres. A number of guests from Shelbyville were present for the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Morris will be at home after Oct. 1, at No. 1719 Hoyt avenue.

The marriage of Miss Helen Kaiser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Kaiser, formerly of Terre Haute, and Mr. Harry M. Cedarholm took place Wednesday night at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. Cedarholm, on Central avenue, the Rev. Peter Seidel officiating. The wedding guests included only the immediate members of the two families, and all the appointments were simple. The only out-of-town guests were Mrs. Stewart, of Wabash, and Miss Thomas of Elwood. Mr. and Mrs. Cedarholm left for a visit to Chicago, and will return to this city.

The marriage of Miss Lola Cohen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Cohen, and Mr. Herman Cohen, of South Bend, took place Wednesday night at the Propylaeum, Rabbi Kantrowitz officiating. The bride was attended by Miss Sadie Cohen, Miss Julia Cohen, Miss Sarah Cohen, of South Bend, and Miss Belle Levi, of Fern. The groomsmen were Mr. Abram

Cohen, Mr. Joseph Cohen, Mr. Philip Cohen and Mr. Herman Cohen. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served in the east parlor. Mr. and Mrs. Cohen left for a wedding journey on the lakes and will be at home after Nov. 1 in South Bend.

A pretty wedding occurred Tuesday at noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Mills, the bride being their daughter, Clara Ethel, and the bridegroom Mr. Barthold Frederick Keller. The Rev. J. C. Peters, of the Zion Church, was the officiating clergyman and the guests were the relatives and most intimate friends. Miss Mabel Mills was the maid of honor, Miss Bertha Keller the bridesmaid, Mr. Emil Keller the best man, and Mr. Albert Keller the groomsmen. The rooms were decorated with pink asters, palms and ferns. Following the ceremony a dinner was served and Mr. and Mrs. Keller left later for a wedding trip. They will be at home at 314 North Noble street, after Oct. 1.

A marriage of interest to Indianapolis people took place Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Scott, in Martinsville, the bride being their sister, Mrs. Ada C. Thomas, and the bridegroom Mr. John T. Lecklider, a prominent attorney of this city. Mrs. Thomas was formerly a resident of Indianapolis, and since her residence here has frequently visited Mrs. Lewis Hill and Mrs. J. H. Greenstreet. The ceremony was pronounced by the Rev. M. L. Gillespie, of the Methodist Church, and will be at home at 1818 Vermont street.

The marriage of Miss Ida May Simpson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Simpson, and Mr. Frank M. Lake, occurred Wednesday night at 8 o'clock at the Second Reformed Church, the Rev. Henry Virz officiating. Mr. Edward Schilling presided at the organ, playing the "Lohengrin" march for the entrance, "Hearts and Flowers" during the ceremony and the "Mendelssohn" march for the recessional. The wedding party included the bridesmaid, Mrs. Roy Thomas and Mr. Albert Kohlschütter; Miss Edna Fink, maid of honor; Miss Edna Reinecke, bridesmaid, and Mr. Carl Lake, best man. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Union street. Mr. and Mrs. Lake will be at home after Oct. 12 at No. 124 Union street.

The marriage of Miss Pearl Lovanda Simmonds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Simmonds, of Chicago, formerly of this city, and Mr. Raymond Bierce Donaldson took place last week at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. John D. Leek, of the Woodlawn Methodist Episcopal Church, pronounced the ceremony. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Lola Simmonds, and the bridegroom by Mr. F. C. Borchert. An orchestra played the wedding music and during the service Mrs. Joseph Wade sang. The bride wore a gown of white French mull trimmed with point lace and carried a bouquet of white and pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson left immediately on their wedding journey and will be at home at the home of the bride's parents in Michigan. They will be at home after Nov. at the Brewster, Chicago. Guests that attended the wedding included Mrs. P. M. Gallahue, of this city, and Mrs. Joseph Hummel and Miss Frances James, of Muncie.

A pretty wedding took place at noon, Wednesday, at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Olson, in Irvington, the bride being her sister, Miss Anna Schow, and the bridegroom Mr. Garrish Rogers, of Hanover. The house was decorated with white asters, golden rod and asparagus fern. An orchestra played the "Lohengrin" wedding music as the bride came down the stairs alone, to be met at the foot by the bridegroom, with the officiating clergyman, the Rev. Mr. Heron, of the Seventh Presbyterian Church. The matron of honor, Mrs. W. E. Allen, preceded the wedding party into the parlor. The bride wore a gown of dove-colored crepe de chine over taffeta, and Mrs. Allen wore her wedding gown of white point d'esprit, trimmed with rows of white satin ribbon. As the ceremony was pronounced the intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana" was played. Guests from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Lawson and Miss Potts, of Hanover; Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Schow, of Columbus, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schilling, of Acton. After a short wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Rogers will be at home at Hanover, Ind., after Oct. 1.

A pretty wedding of Wednesday night was that of Miss Jessie L. Hemphill and Mr. Charles A. Mueller, which took place at 7 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mr. F. E. Hemphill, on College avenue. The Rev. Frank O. Ballard pronounced the ceremony. There were no attendants.

BRIDE TO VISIT KING MENELIK

Some lovely little curly dishes which may be used for holding bonbons or for other similar purposes are Austrian glass and cost but $1.25. In coloring they are very like the lovely Favrille glass.

An art nouveau mirror-frame calculated to distract milady's attention from the contemplation of even her own charms is of metal in the lovely pink and lavender hues that the new art alone knows how to achieve. Another variety is equally beautiful, and the cost of the piece is $12.

Among the prettiest of the lognette chains are those of very tiny beads which are strung on a flexible wire and are fastenable to break than those of gold or silver links. The chains are of three varieties—the silver ones which cost $1, the gold plated which cost $2.50, and the truly golden ones which jump way up to $2.

About the daintiest of the new hats shown for winter wear are those of narrow valence lace. The hats have a look which is childlike if not bland, but they are not intended for children, nevertheless. Brim and crown are fashioned from row upon row of the narrowest of val edging and the effect is indescribably fluffy.

Fire screens are becoming more numerous in the furnishing shops as well regulated gas fires grow fewer. Among the pretty new ones is a severely plain frame of weathered oak which holds a bright colored golfing scene. Another variety is particularly appropriate for this season shows a lovely lady driving a high stepper, against a background of scarlet. The screens are priced at $5.75.

The most notable wedding of the week took place Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clemens Vonnegut, Jr., when their daughter Ella was married to Mr. William Kerfoot Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Stewart. The wedding guests included only the members of the two families and the immediate friends. The Vonnegut home, on Broadway, was beautifully decorated with masses of green ferns and foliage plants, relieved here and there by great clusters of pink asters. An orchestra played the wedding music as the bride came through an aisle of ribbons, which were held by Mr. and Mrs. Vonnegut, and Mr. Anton Vonnegut. The officiating clergyman, the Rev. James Cunningham, was assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Vonnegut. Mr. Stewart, with his best man, his brother, Mr. Charles Holiday Stewart, Miss Wilson, the bride's only attendant, came next, walking alone. Her gown was of pink brocade, trimmed with cream silk, with long trains of pink and white flowers were La France roses. The bride followed, also walking alone. Her gown was of white tulle, trimmed with delicate over liberty satin. Both bodice and skirt had yards of handsome Burges lace. The bride carried a bouquet of delicate swansea blossoms, and the veil was fastened by a cluster of the same flowers. As the words of the ceremony were pronounced the orchestra played "Lest's deidshon" march during congratulations. Following the ceremony a buffet supper was served, and Mr. and Mrs. Stewart left for a wedding journey, after which they will be at home at 611 East Thirtieth street, where Mr. and Mrs. William D. Kerfoot, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Myers, of Anderson; Mr. John Lewis Myers, of Indiana, and Mr. Edward Noble, of Baltimore.

One of the pretty home weddings of Wednesday night was that of Miss Emma Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Adams, of South East street, and Mr. Frank Reissner. The ceremony was pronounced at 8 o'clock by the Rev. J. C. Peters, of the Zion Church, in the presence of the immediate relatives and a few intimate friends. The wedding party included Miss Lilla Adams, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, Miss Doris Reissner, and Miss Martha Howes as bridesmaids, Miss Julia and Miss Loretta Adams as flower maids, and Mr. E. C. Brown as best man. The bride was attended by her mother, Mr. Charles Adams, who gave away the bride, and a white satin-finished crepe de chine over cream silk, with long trains of pink and white flowers were La France roses. The bride followed, also walking alone. Her gown was of white tulle, trimmed with delicate over liberty satin. Both bodice and skirt had yards of handsome Burges lace. The bride carried a bouquet of delicate swansea blossoms, and the veil was fastened by a cluster of the same flowers. Suggestions to Shoppers.
Oriental nets, in plain colors, red, blue, green, and others, are among the new and effective things for overdraperies.

Yards of wide point de Paris edgings, at the sum of 10 cents a yard, are particularly attractive to home-made petticoats made lovely and lacy by their aid.
